

Name: _____

Date: _____

Do Now – December 6, 2010
Introducing quotes into sentences

Directions: In each example below, a writer has tried to introduce a quotation into his or her sentence.

Decide whether you think the author does this effectively or ineffectively. For each one, write at least one sentence why you classified it the way you have.

If you believe it is ineffective, change the sentence(s) around to make it more effective.

ANSWER IN YOUR CLASS NOTEBOOK

1. American author Henry David Thoreau often pondered the purpose of life. “Why should we live with such hurry and waste of life?” (12).
2. According to Thoreau, people are often “thrown off the track by every nutshell and mosquito's wing that falls on the rails.” (p. 64).
3. Thoreau argues that people blindly accept “shams and delusions” as the “soundest truths,” while regarding reality as “fabulous” (19).
4. Thoreau suggests the consequences of making ourselves slaves to progress when he says that “we do not ride on the railroad; it rides upon us” (27).

Name: _____

Date: _____

Do Now – December 6, 2010
Introducing quotes into sentences

Directions: In each example below, a writer has tried to introduce a quotation into his or her sentence.

Decide whether you think the author does this effectively or ineffectively. For each one, write at least one sentence why you classified it the way you have.

If you believe it is ineffective, change the sentence(s) around to make it more effective.

ANSWER IN YOUR CLASS NOTEBOOK

1. American author Henry David Thoreau often pondered the purpose of life. “Why should we live with such hurry and waste of life?” (12).
2. According to Thoreau, people are often “thrown off the track by every nutshell and mosquito's wing that falls on the rails.” (p. 64).
3. Thoreau argues that people blindly accept “shams and delusions” as the “soundest truths,” while regarding reality as “fabulous” (19).
4. Thoreau suggests the consequences of making ourselves slaves to progress when he says that “we do not ride on the railroad; it rides upon us” (27).