

Point of View Practice

1. Tucked in the southern tip of Florida, the Everglades is the third largest national park. It is nearly twice the size of Rhode Island, containing one and half million acres of land of water.
a. First person b. third objective c. third limited d. third omniscient
2. Lauren had heard the words but could not make herself feel they were true. She waited dully for Mama to begin to cry. Mama sat very straight and did not shed a tear.
a. First person b. third objective c. third limited d. third omniscient
3. They moved Mary down to the couch in the living room instead. She didn't care that she would be alone. Anna sighed with relief since there just wasn't room for them to share the same sleeping quarters any longer.
a. First person b. third objective c. third limited d. third omniscient
4. Mother did not say a word to me. Instead she sent a searching look down the table to where my father sat.
a. First person b. third objective c. third limited d. third omniscient
5. In September, Bonnie said a tearful goodbye to the patients and staff and took a week off before school started. She knew she would miss them greatly, but she had problems to solve.
a. First person b. third objective c. third limited d. third omniscient
6. The crew pitched their tents and began to work. They used shovels to level a pathway for the train tracks.
a. First person b. third objective c. third limited d. third omniscient
7. The sailor took his pipe from his mouth, spat, put the pipe between his teeth again, and looked away. The young girl, ashamed that her appearance would arouse feelings of charity, hurried toward her home.
a. First person b. third objective c. third limited d. third omniscient
8. Their father had been on a business trip and was anxiously returning home that very night. The children, frightened and not knowing what to do, waited for him in their room all day long.
a. First person b. third objective c. third limited d. third omniscient
9. I never thought that Grandpa would be lonely after our visits, and none of us noticed how old and weak he had become.
a. First person b. third objective c. third limited d. third omniscient
10. The anger had gone from her heart, and all that remained was the love she had always known. So she stopped and waited for him. Finally, they returned to their home where they lived out their days in mutual happiness, peace, and love.
a. First person b. third objective c. third limited d. third omniscient