

Identifying Possessive Pronouns

Name: _____ Date: _____

Select the word that is the possessive pronoun in each sentence.

- (1) Brian is well-known for his athletic talents.
a. is                                  c. his
b. for                                 d. Brian
- (2) The book no longer has its cover.
a. no                                 c. its
b. has                                d. The
- (3) The dog lost its toy in the stream.
a. the                                c. in
b. its                                 d. dog
- (4) The sun shines brightly into your room.
a. your                              c. The
b. into                               d. sun
- (5) I think yours is the best essay.
a. best                               c. yours
b. is                                 d. I
- (6) Is this mess yours?
a. mess                              c. Is
b. this                               d. yours
- (7) My pen does not write very well.
a. My                                c. well
b. very                              d. not
- (8) This notebook is his.
a. his                                 c. This
b. is                                 d. notebook
- (9) The basketball is his.
a. basketball                      c. The
b. is                                 d. his
- (10) This slice of pizza is yours.
a. of                                 c. This
b. yours                            d. is
- (11) I found your notebook in the cafeteria.
a. in                                 c. your
b. the                                d. I
- (12) I am amazed that you got a perfect score on your test.
a. you                               c. got
b. am                                d. your
- (13) The barrette with the butterfly on it is hers.
a. with                              c. hers
b. the                                d. it

ANSWER KEY

Select the word that is the possessive pronoun in each sentence.

(1) Brian is well-known for his athletic talents.

- a. is                       c. his
b. for                     d. Brian

(2) The book no longer has its cover.

- a. no                       c. its
b. has                     d. The

(3) The dog lost its toy in the stream.

- a. the                     c. in
 b. its                     d. dog

(4) The sun shines brightly into your room.

- a. your                   c. The
b. into                   d. sun

(5) I think yours is the best essay.

- a. best                    c. yours
b. is                      d. I

(6) Is this mess yours?

- a. mess                   c. Is
b. this                    d. yours

(7) My pen does not write very well.

- a. My                    c. well
b. very                   d. not

(8) This notebook is his.

- a. his                    c. This
b. is                      d. notebook

(9) The basketball is his.

- a. basketball           c. The
b. is                       d. his

(10) This slice of pizza is yours.

- a. of                      c. This
 b. yours                d. is

(11) I found your notebook in the cafeteria.

- a. in                       c. your
b. the                     d. I

(12) I am amazed that you got a perfect score on your test.

- a. you                    c. got
b. am                     d. your

(13) The barrette with the butterfly on it is hers.

- a. with                    c. hers
b. the                    d. it